When Your Little Child

cries at night, tosses restlessly and mutters in its sleep, is constipated, fretful and feverish, or has symptoms of worms, you feel worried and have your night's rest disturbed by the little one's crying, or perhaps because of your own anxiety.

Many thousands of mothers rely at such times upon a tried and trusted remedy always kept in the house.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Child, en.

Used by mothers for 24 years. These powders cleanse the stomach, act on the liver and give healthy sleep by regulating the child's system. Easy to give and pleasant for the child to take. Every mother in every community is using them with splendid results.

Be sure you ask for, and obtain, Mother Gray's Sweet Powders FOR CHILDREN.

COUNTY BOARD GETS ELEVEN NEW MEMBERS

LARGE PERCENTAGE OF NEW SUPERVISORS IS NOTED AS RESULT OF TUESDAY'S VOTE.

SYKES BEATS HEDDLES

New Representative From First Ward Wins Over Heddles by Margin of 84—Gray and Sherman Defeated.

There will be eleven new supervisors on the county board according to the unofficial returns received at the Gazette office today. The members of the board will be as follows: City of Janesville—Charles Sykes, M. P. Richardson, Edw. Rathern, J. A. Denning and J. P. Cullen. City of Beloit—Simon Smith, B. D. Treawley, Edw. Benson, F. W. Wilford, and F. H. O'Neal.

City of Evansville—M. L. Paulson, John Tuilar, H. T. Austin. City of Edgerton—Henry Ebbott, E. Criffin, Edw. Ross, Beloit, H. B. Mosley, Bradford, C. J. Stanley, Center, Eli Crail, Clinton, John Keough, Fulton, Peter Anderson, Harmon, E. L. Bingham, Janesville, P. MacFay, K. G. Gyer, Iowa, A. J. Warner, Magnolia, P. E. Bennett, Milton, W. P. Marquard, Newark, B. C. Hansen, Plymouth, C. O. Onsgard, Rehford, C. D. McCarthy, Rock, Fred Reifold, Spring Valley, Frank Hansen, Turtle, W. W. Swingle, Union, Thomas Steele.

Clinton village, W. B. Dalton; Milton village, W. B. Maxon; and Orfordville, O. A. Neal.

Probably the hardest fought contest for supervisor took place in the First ward of the city of Janesville, where Charles Sykes defeated S. H. Heddles by vote of 84 to 22, majority of 84 for Sykes. Mr. Heddles has been one of the leaders on the county board for a number of years and has served on several of the most important committees. He has done exceptionally good work as chairman of the purchasing committee.

Another important change on the board is the election of M. L. Paulson, of Evansville, to succeed A. C. Gray, the present chairman. Mr. Gray was one of the older members of the board and was among the leaders in county affairs. As chairman he has conducted the meetings in a business like manner. His absence will be a matter of regret in Mr. Paulson Evansville will have a capable representative. He has served on the board in previous years. H. T. Austin takes the place of J. A. Smith.

In the town of Fulton John Sherman, for twenty years or more the representative on the board from that town, will be replaced this year by Peter Anderson, of that town, standing 114 to 24, a majority of 81 for Anderson. Mr. Sherman has been one of the conservative men of the board and has served on important committees, doing especially creditable work on the bridge committee.

N. M. Gleason of the town of Lima, another of the old men of the board, will return to its sessions this year. Mr. Gleason was not a candidate for re-election, and his place will be taken by A. J. Warner.

In the town of Porter C. D. McCarthy succeeds W. B. Porter. George Hull will take the place of John Norton from Johnston. W. L. Dulton succeeds F. J. Barker of Clinton village, and F. R. O'Neal and Neils Benson are new men from Beloit. P. R. O'Neal succeeds W. A. Rossow, who was elected to the Beloit common council.

In the town of Milton, where W. P. Marquard was re-elected chairman, John A. Paul, former chairman, received a complimentary vote of 115, his friends writing in his name on the ticket.

Chairmanship at Stake. The first meeting of the county supervisors will probably be called during the present month. There probably will be something of a contest for the office of chairman of the board, Fred Reifold of the town of Rock, R. K. Overton of the town of Beloit, and E. B. Mosley of the town of Beloit being among those who are mentioned for the place. With nearly one-third of the board new men there will be a complete change in the personnel of the board's committees.

ARREST FOUR MORE IN RAIDS TUESDAY IN POLICE CLEAN-UP

Mabel Griffen and Lulu James and Two Men Brought Into Court for Violating City Ordinance.

Judge Harry L. Maxfield had a busy session in the municipal court this morning after his election, for four people were arraigned for violating the city ordinance. Miss Lulu James was charged with operating a house of prostitution, at 403 Forest Park Boulevard and Mabel Griffen, Walter Locke and Charles Hoover were held as frequenting the place for immoral purposes. All paid bond of $100 each, with the exception of Locke, who was sent to the Rock county jail, not being able to furnish the hundred dollar bail set by the court. Judge Maxfield, on the motion of Attorney John Fisher, allowed Locke to be released in the custody of the arresting officer.

On Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock, Chief of Police Ransom, together with Charles Morrissey and Champion, raided the place and arrested Mabel Griffen, Charles Hoover and William Carle. Hoover and the Griffen girl were caught by Champion as they were about to escape through the back door. The James woman was not taken to the station. Carle was released by Chief Ransom this morning. Judge Maxfield, last night, ordered Sam Brown, arrested at Forest Park Boulevard, made the second trip to the house, and gained entrance after half an hour of waiting, and arrested Mabel Griffen and Lulu James. When brought into court this morning all four were anxious to be brought to trial as soon as possible, and after a conference it was decided to try the case of Miss James first, because of the important bearing it would have on the other three cases. Judge Maxfield set the James woman's case for Monday, the thirteenth, at ten o'clock. The other three cases were set for Tuesday, the fourteenth, and will probably be adjourned, as James trial is expected to take more than a day's time. City Attorney Dougherty represented the city, as the defendants had been arrested for violating a city ordinance.

The raid resulted from orders from Mayor Fathers and the numerous complaints that have been received by house Mable Griffen has been wanted by the police for some time and when she was brought into court the last time, she was given warning by Judge Maxfield, but to no avail. With these arrests the police declare they have cleaned up a gang that has caused them great trouble and are to blame for a large share of the complaints.

The trial of Lillian Cook and Stewart McConnell is set for Thursday, making six arrests that have been made within the last week on statutory charges.

M'CARTHY LOW MAN ON SCHOOL BOARD

Austin, Atkinson, Boag, Cooper and Hinkley Believed to be Elected. Of the 23 precincts returns from 19 out of the 23 precincts have been received, candidates for membership on the county board of education, indications point to the elimination of C. W. McCarthy of the town of Porter, from the list. This will leave the town of Janesville, J. T. Atkinson, La Prairie, Solon Cooper, Clinton, Chas. W. Boag, Beloit, and J. P. Hinkley, Milton. McCarthy's vote was 810, or 45 less than his nearest opponent. The table showing the vote for the six candidates follows:

ALL-STAR TEAMS TO PLAY GAME TONIGHT

First and Second Church League Picks to Test Strength at J. H. S. Gymnasium This Evening.

The church league rooters will have a chance to witness a match basketball contest this evening at the high school gymnasium, between the first and second all-star picked teams as selected by the Gazette. There has been much comment since the selection was made, that the second team could easily trim the first five in a match contest. The game will start at seven-thirty, as arranged by the two teams today. The lineups will be as follows:

First pick—McVicar, Presbyterians, L. Williams, Methodists, T. L. Brown, captain, Congregationalists, C. H. Richards, captain, Methodists, C. Lee, Congregationalists, I. G. Dearborn, Trinity, r. g.

NATIONAL FIVE DEFEAT AMERICANS BY 144 PINS

Neighbors and his candidates for bowling honors, in the Miller's tournament, won last night's election over the Americans by taking the match with a landslide of heavy polling from the three precincts and finishing with a majority of 144.

The defeated candidates put over a claim that the election was illegal as their captain and party leader, Cook, was not in the game. When the polls closed the Nationals started out to win honors by taking the first round by 31 points and soon had a handsome majority to mark on. Robins of the defeated candidates, won high honors for the evening by 151 votes.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Browns, says he will not manage the team on Sundays, Branch having several commitments in this respect.

Gard. So the Browns will have to find two managers this season for the days of the week and one special for Sunday. Jimmy Austin or Hobby Wallace will probably fill in as chief on the day of rest.

Rebe Waddell would never admit that he had gone back in his pitching when he was shipped away to the minors. He didn't like life in the bush league towns a bit and frequently would disappear for weeks at a time. The Cantillon brothers nursed him along for several seasons, more because he was a good drawing card than anything else, and it peeved Rebe when he was told that he wasn't the twister he used to be. He insisted that he had been mistreated when he was canned to the sticks and he had some sort of an idea that there was a plot to keep him out of the majors. If they let him go back and work on the big circuit, he often said, he would put up a better game than Walter Johnson, Matty or any of them. He never seemed to realize that his strength was fading and that the day he had lead was beginning to hurt his health.

Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford are the only members of the Tigers today who were with the team in 1907, the first winning season for Detroit. All the rest of the lineup that helped grab the American league pennant that year are either elsewhere in the majors or they've joined the Reds or sunk into the bush. Davy Jones, George Mullin and Edgar Willett are three of the then champs who are listed among the Feds today. "Wild Bill" Donovan is managing the Providence club of the International league. Jim Archer is now catching for the Cubs. Coughlin, third sacker with the 1907 champs, is manager of the Allentown team of the Tri-State league. Germany Schaefer, who played second base for the Cardinals, is now catching for the Cardinals. They let him go to Frisco. Killian, some southpaw, is now living in Detroit and is out of the game save for an occasional semi-pro affair. Stever, another twister of those days, is retired. It's up to Hughie to replace these boys with something in the way of class if he ever hopes to cop again.

Clark Griffith recently turned over a young pitcher named Harry Holt to Atlanta, with the remark:

"He's the most promising youngster I've seen in years." Griffith must have a swell bunch of stuff to pick from this spring.

Hughie Jennings has some tall and skinny pitchers on his team this season. Three of them are said to total nineteen feet one inch in height, one of them being almost seven feet tall.

Amusements

A. J. Woods presents the charming young player, Oulma Marion, with the Marion-Woods Company, in select plays and pleasing vaudeville. Their engagement here is for eight days starting Sunday, April 12 at the Myers Theatre. Their opening play will be the beautiful Kentucky romance in four acts entitled, "Kentucky Sue," with Miss Marion in the title role. Miss Marion or the past four seasons has been connected with some of the best stock and road attractions on the Pacific Coast. Her capabilities as a leading woman are unlimited. During the above engagement, Miss Marion will play a line of parts that greatly differ from each other, thereby giving her an excellent opportunity to demonstrate her remarkable versatility. There will be introduced, each night, between the acts, a complete change of vaudeville specialties. It is the earnest endeavor of the management to give the theatre patrons meritorious performances at a very small price of admission.

Rowland & Clifford, the well-known theatrical producers have prepared a new 1914 musical comedy single called "September Morn." Dave Lewis is the author of the play, which is assisted by a jolly crew of fifty assistant entertainers accompanying. Arthur Gillespie is responsible for the book and lyrics. Aubrey Stauffer wrote the music. Virgil Bennett thought out a series of lively dances. Tanguos, etc., and Frank Tannehill, Jr. staged the production.

"September Morn" is not of the old school farce comedy, but rather of the latter day farce with an elaborate dressing of costumes and scenery; a graceful, dancing, spirited and charming chorus of good looking girls have the big ensemble numbers well in hand and the general swing of the performance is delightfully new and different.

Minerva Coverdale, the American Gaby Deslys, is seen in this revel of dances and tangoes and a series of dances now the rage in Paris. Frances Kennedy and the smartest company of the season and who were the originals in the parts at the La Salle Opera House, Chicago, where "September Morn" recently enjoyed a fine, big hit run.

She is coming—dear little Miss "September Morn"—but she's a theatrical in the form of a three-act musical comedy—this with songs, jokes, scenery and girls—lots of them. Dave Lewis, the original joy bug, is the start of the play, which is presented by Rowland & Clifford's specially selected musical comedy company of fifty. Many new tango and hesitation dances have been staged and the latest foreign creation called "Shark Swish Dip"—very popular in London, England, goes with a rush.

Besides Mr. Lewis the company contains "The American Gaby Deslys," Minerva Coverdale who is a wonderful dancer and clever otherwise and that splendid actress and singer, Frances Kennedy, is also seen in a prominent role and the company contains many entertainers out of the ordinary, besides a big chorus of pretty girls.

This company recently finished a highly successful engagement at the LaSalle opera house, Chicago.

Sleep. While on the March. Sleep can persist with the exercise of certain muscles. Counters on long journeys nap on horseback. Among the impressive incidents of Sir John Moore's disastrous retreat to Coruna, in Spain, not the least striking is the recorded fact that many of his soldiers pursued their march while fast asleep. Burdach, however, affirms that this is not uncommon among soldiers.

Clark Griffith recently turned over a young pitcher named Harry Holt to Atlanta, with the remark:

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, April 8, 1874.

The votes cast yesterday were done so strictly on party lines with the following: For mayor, Merrill defeated Doe by a majority of 24 votes. Valentine received 1341 votes for city clerk with no opposition. Hazelton defeated Lawrence for treasurer by a majority of 189. Taylor defeated Gillette for the office of Justice of the Peace by a majority of 132; for police justice Patten defeated Smith by a majority of 68; Brooks beat Knott for sealer by a majority of 38; for city attorney Winans received a majority of 65 over Sale; in the first ward Davies beat Fifield for alderman, Rogers beat Miles in the second, Church beat Fifield in the third, Blount beat Caesar in the fourth, Fitzgibbon beat Spaulding in the fifth. In the race for supervisor Leavitt beat Kinney in the first, Hutchinson beat Hoskins in the second, Guernsey had no opposition in the third, Carle beat Wildt more in the fourth, Lynch beat Carle in the fifth, Richardson and Smith were elected school commissioners. In the race for constable Porter beat Wheeler in the first, Comerod had no opposition in the second, Parker had no opposition in the third, Doty beat McDougall in the fourth, Case beat Smith in the fifth. The total vote for alderman was 1,469.

Col. Britton, chief of the fire department had a narrow escape last night while on his way to a fire in the second ward. He started to cross the railroad bridge in order to take a short cut, and being unaware of the uncompleted condition of the bridge, fell through. He managed to catch himself on the iron work below. While the injuries he received are not of a serious nature, they were painful enough to demand the care of a physician.

SUGGESTION MADE FOR GOOD FRIDAY THOUGHT

No Person Too Busy To Bow Their Head In Prayer On The Day Which Commemorates Christ's Death.

On Friday of the present week the Christian world commemorates the suffering and death of our Lord on the cross. The following suggestion relative to the commemoration is handed the Gazette for publication by the Reverend John McKinney of Christ Episcopal church.

At the last general convention a resolution was passed unanimously by the house of deputies, "Resolved, the House of Bishops concurring. That we commend to all Christian people the observance of ten minutes' thoughtful silence at three o'clock on Good Friday in recognition and commemoration of the sacrifice and death of the world's Saviour." The House of Bishops adopted the following substitute: "Resolved, the House of Deputies concurring. That we recognize with sympathy the inability of many Christian people to share in the age-long custom of setting apart Good Friday as a day of public and private devotion in commemoration of the sacrifice of our Lord. In view of this fact we call upon them at noon on that day to unite in at least a few minutes of special personal contemplation of Christ crucified." The House of Deputies concurred in the substitute.

Possibly a word of explanation in regard to the motive and meaning of this action of the general convention may be acceptable to those of the clergy who were not present.

Wm. H. Taft, president of the United States dies, during his term of office, at the time of his funeral there is a general cessation of business for a few minutes throughout the country; the country is silent out of respect for his memory. When the president of a great railway system dies there is a cessation of business in its shops and offices for a few minutes at the hour of his funeral; the system is silent out of respect for his memory. The veterans of the Grand Army observe a few minutes' silence at noon on Memorial Day in commemoration of the death of their comrades. It is the world's way of showing respect. There is no expression of recognition or commemoration of the sacrifice and death of the world's Saviour by the great Christian world. It observes Christmas in recognition of His birth; it very largely observes Easter in honor of His memory and trust in His attaining death; there is no expression or commemoration of His death which at all corresponds with that of His birth and resurrection. It is hoped that this may appeal to them, that our own church, if it may appeal to other Christian communities, as our observance of Christmas and Good Friday has done. It is indeed a little thing, utterly inadequate, but anything would be inadequate, and something is better than nothing. The commendation of the church to its members to take upon itself the liberty of doing so.

Everybody's Doing It.

"A year ago people didn't think of the possibility that a fire had been set," said a New York fire insurance adjuster. "Now they don't think of anything else. The other day I had to investigate a small fire. What do you think was the cause? I asked the janitor. It looks to me, said he, 'like the friction between a $500 value and a $1,000 policy.'"

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

STOP, LOOK AND SEE

"W" If you please tell me the date?" I asked a bank cashier the other day.

He pointed to a spot on the wall in front of me, and I saw a life-sized calendar showing in glaucous tones that it was the 6th of April. Of course I was embarrassed at my stupidity. The bank clerk was kind enough to reassure me by informing me that I was no means an exception.

We hang the calendar on that particular wall because that's where people make out their checks and their deposit slips.

He said, "but there's a never a day never a day never a day for three people don't stand there with their noses almost rubbing against the calendar, and ask me what the date is. I've even known absent minded people to do it more than once."

There are none so blind as those who can't see the obvious.

If it were possible to estimate how little the average man sees with his mental eye of all that he looks at with his physical eye I think we should be agast.

Let me tell you of an interesting and illuminating experiment along this line. I took some friends whom you regard as of at least average intelligence to look out the watch that he has looked at probably a half dozen times a day as long as he has owned it. Reckoning five times a day, he has looked at that watch eighteen hundred and twenty-five times in a single year. Surely every detail about it ought to be familiar to him. Now take it in your hand and ask him all the questions you can think of about it. Ask him whether the numerals are Roman or Arabic; what is the exact shape of the hands; if there is any lettering on the watch; if the minute subdivisions are indicated; whether the numerals at the bottom of both the second and minute circles are inverted or right side up, etc., etc.

The average man will not be able to answer more than three-quarters of these questions.

Now if this experiment is in regard to an object which he has seen hundreds of a thousand times a year, how little he must take in of the objects which he only sees from time to time.

With a very few people the habit of observation is a natural gift; most of us need to be trained to observe.

Such training ought to be part of every child's education and would be of far more value to him than some of the conventional curriculum.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like to know if you think a lad of 15 is too young to take a girl 15 years old to a theater in the evening? I have a girl friend and have given her several invitations to theaters, but she declines, saying that she is not keeping company. I have a mother who is a no objection whatever. Would you ask her a boy more? I have a boy who is 15 and I think he is old enough to accompany her at intervals.

What do you think of card-playing? I think it is a first-class education. I would not think too much of any girl for a few years. Both you and the girl are too young to go to theater, and if you are making any money, but it is a first-class education or save it toward an investment when you are older. Don't spend it taking girls to the theater. You will like an entirely different kind of girl when you are old enough to know what you want. Then I hope you will be able to give a good home to the girl you love.

I believe you are going to make a splendid man. Do what you want to do. I think you are a first-class education. I would not think too much of any girl for a few years. Both you and the girl are too young to go to theater, and if you are making any money, but it is a first-class education or save it toward an investment when you are older. Don't spend it taking girls to the theater. You will like an entirely different kind of girl when you are old enough to know what you want. Then I hope you will be able to give a good home to the girl you love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last summer I had a white milky straw hat, which is perfectly new and I would like very much to wear it this year, but it is too large. If I would cut it off, I am afraid the straw might "ravel" out. Could you tell me how to fix it so it would not? CLEO.

Mark the brim with pencil just where you want to cut it. Then cut with a sharp knife and bind it with white silk.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you kindly tell me whether or not Alice Roosevelt Longworth has any children? Mrs. Nicholas Longworth has no children.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What do you think of a fellow who goes with a girl for a while and his folks go to town and he gets going with a girl in town; then this other girl is in town one night and he meets her at a dance and wants to take her home. She stings another fellow to go home with him. He takes her home, stays a while and then tells her he is engaged to the other girl. Which one do you think he likes the best? ANNIE.

I presume he likes best the girl to whom he is engaged. He, probably.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

NATURAL arms each man with some faculty which makes him do easily what would be impossible for another. — Emerson.

GOOD BITS FOR OCCASIONS.

For those who are fond of fruit soups this is one worth trying:

Cherry and Pineapple Soup.—Stone a cup of sour cherries (canned ones will answer as well). Cut one or two slices of pineapple into cubes and add to the cherries. Add a cupful or two of grated pineapple to the kernels of the cherry pits with a pint of cherries, add a quart of water and cook 20 minutes. Mix half a cup of sugar with two teaspoonfuls of arrow root, and stir into the hot soup. Cook ten minutes, strain and set aside to cool, or it may be served hot, garnished with the fruit.

Huntington Salad.—Chop very fine some white cabbage (there should be two-thirds of a cupful); add a softened cream cheese to the cabbage; mix well. Season with salt, roll into balls, sprinkle with paprika and serve with French dressing on lettuce.

Crab Meat and Red Peppers.—Remove the yolks from four hard cooked eggs, mash and add two tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs; chop the whites fine, add these with a tablespoonful and a half of red pepper finely chopped. The canned will do nicely. Put into a saucepan four tablespoonfuls of butter; when melted stir in the egg mixture and cook until smooth, adding a little at a time a cup of cream, then add a cupful of crab meat, season highly and serve in patties or on circles of buttered toast.

Cherry and Almond Mousse.—Cook a cupful of sugar and water together until it threads, then pour slowly over the whites of three eggs well beaten; when cold fold in a pint of whipped cream. Add a cupful of orange juice. Put into a small covered pail and pack in ice and salt for five hours. Turn out on a platter and press lady fingers all around the mold, each with a candied cherry on top, and scatter chopped cherries and almonds over all.

Mexican Tomato Salad.—Rub a salad bowl with the cut side of a clove of garlic; line the bowl with lettuce. Dispose slices of tomatoes sprinkled with chopped green pepper and onion in the dish and garnish with thin slices of olives. Serve with five tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two of lemon juice and salt and cayenne to taste.

Cut bananas into balls with a potato cutter, roll in French dressing and nuts, and serve in nests of water cress with French dressing.

SOME SPECIAL USES FOR CORN MEAL.

The peculiar consistency of corn meal, which is a disadvantage under some circumstances, is an advantage in making griddle cakes or waffles, for it renders them very tender. Among the recipes which a new farming bulletin (No. 555) of the Department of Agriculture recommends are the following:

Corn Meal Pancakes.
2 cups flour, one-half cup corn meal, 1 1/2 cups water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, one-third cup sugar, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1/4 cups milk, 1 egg.

Add meal to boiling water and boil 5 minutes; turn into bowl, add milk and remaining dry ingredients mixed and sifted, then the egg well beaten, and butter. Cook on a greased griddle.

Corn Meal and Wheat Waffles.
1 1/2 cups water, one-half cup white corn meal, 1/2 cups milk, 3 cups flour, 3 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1 1/2 tablespoonfuls baking powder, 1 1/2 cups salt, yolks 2 eggs, white 2 eggs, 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter.

Cook the meal in boiling water 20 minutes; add milk, dry ingredients mixed and sifted, yolks of eggs well beaten, butter and whites of eggs beaten stiff. Cook on a greased waffle iron.

There is also a large variety of popular and very nutritious puddings that may be made with corn meal, although rice is probably more frequently used. The department's experts in nutrition suggest that the housewife try these:

Indian Pudding.
5 cups milk, one-third cup corn meal, one-half cup molasses, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger.

Cook milk and meal in a double boiler 20 minutes; add molasses, salt, and ginger; pour into buttered pudding dish and bake 2 hours in slow oven; serve with cream.

Corn Meal and Fig Pudding.
1 cup corn meal, 1 cup molasses, 6 cups milk (or 4 of milk and 2 of cream), 1 cup finely chopped figs, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cook the corn meal with 4 cups of the milk, add the figs and salt. When the mixture is cool, add the eggs well beaten. Pour into a buttered dish and bake in a moderate oven for 3 hours or more. When partly cooked add the remainder of the milk without stirring the pudding.

Corn Meal and Apple Pudding.
For the figs in the above recipe substitute a pint of finely sliced or chopped sweet apples.

It is often possible to substitute corn meal for part of the flour in making cakes. In some cases there is no special advantage in using it, but it is well to know that it can be used in emergencies. In making doughnuts, however, there is a decided advantage in substituting corn meal for part of the flour, for doughnuts so made are more likely to be tender.

Indian Meal Doughnuts.
Three-fourths cup milk, 1 1/2 cups very fine white corn meal, 1 1/2 cups wheat flour, one-fourth cup butter, three-fourths cup sugar, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tea-

Women Worth While

MRS. JOHN N. GARNER.

By Selma Armstrong Harmon.

Thirteen years ago a young Texas lawyer decided to run for congress. This seemed to his wife a reckless, almost a foolhardy, thing for him to do, for they were very poor. And, as everybody knows, politics is not a poor man's recreation. However, the congressional race once entered, this particular man, John N. Garner, was in to win, and his wife was at his side to help him.

Mrs. Garner went into the office that served as campaign headquarters, and that was managed by her husband's law partner. She did clerical work and any other sort of work that happened to be needed, going about her duties as clerk and assistant campaign manager in a perfectly quiet, business-like way.

This was thirteen years ago, as has been said. Representative Garner has now been a member of the lower house of congress for twelve years. During this time his only secretary has been his wife, Mrs. Garner.

Learned typewriting and shorthand in order to fill the position. She has a business office in her home and, unlike most women who are also home makers, she works by business-like methods. Mrs. Garner is at her desk by a certain hour every morning, early hour at that. Throughout a year's work she averages writing about fifty letters a day. She reads and clips seventy papers published in her husband's district. She answers requests from constituents for every thing from garden seed to information on national legislation.

Mrs. Garner protests that there is nothing remarkable in any woman's filling such a position capably. Perhaps not. But when in addition to the meal she is a homemaker and housekeeper; when she teaches a Sunday school class and never misses a prayer meeting night at church, and then finds time to enjoy a normal spoon's baking powder, 1 level teaspoon salt.

Put milk and meal into a double boiler and heat together for about 10 minutes. Add the butter and sugar to the meal. Sift together the wheat flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt. Add these and the eggs to the meal. Roll out on a well-floured board; cut into the desired shapes; fry in oil, drain and roll in powdered sugar.

Corn meal, because it requires long cooking, is peculiarly adaptable for preparation in the fireless cooker. Also, like all finely divided foods which are cooked in water, it can easily be brought to a uniformly high temperature, and there is no danger, as there is in cooking large pieces of meat, for example, that some parts will be cool when the food is put into the cooker. The large amount of water with which it is combined is also of advantage, for water has a very high specific heat, and for this reason cools off comparatively slowly. In a cooking corn meal in the fireless cooker, 5 hours at least should be allowed.

A recipe for corn meal mush made in the fireless cooker is as follows: 1 cup meal, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 1/2 cups water, milk or milk and water. Mix ingredients and bring them to the boiling point. Place the pail in the cooker and leave for from 5 to 10 hours. If the pail holding the mush is set into another pail of hot water before being placed in the cooker, the heat will be retained better, but whether this is necessary or not depends on the efficiency of the cooker.

The new bulletin just issued, which gives these recipes and others, is entitled: "Corn Meal As A Food and Ways of Using It," and may be had free on application to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Borax Is a Better Water Softener Than Any Other Substance

Hard water is a mistake of Nature, and when Nature makes a mistake she always provides a remedy.

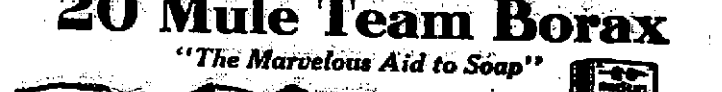

The Remedy for Hard Water Is Borax

One teaspoonful to the gallon — softens the hardest water

20 Mule Team Borax is a marvelous aid to soap, and should be used wherever soap is used. It increases the cleansing power of soap, and produces wonderfully improved results. Borax makes everything hygienically clean, because it is an antiseptic and a purifier, as well as a cleanser. Use it in the Laundry to make your clothes whiter; in the Kitchen to cut grease from pans and dishes; in the Bath to soften the water and cleanse the pores of the skin; and use it all about the house for all cleansing purposes. There is nothing better.

cial life as well, she must know some efficiency which the average woman has not grasped.

"If I seem to you to accomplish anything worth while," Mrs. Garner said modestly to her interviewer, "it is only because I have learned the secret system. I think it is the secret of efficiency, and one which we women find especially hard to learn. You ask if I do my own marketing. Certainly, I do. But I could not without being very systematic about it. For instance, I always market on certain days of the week and at a certain hour. This hour, if you would like to know it, happens to be before breakfast. On market days I take care to order provisions for the entire week, so that it may not be necessary to run to the telephone frequently on other days for conferences with the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker."

"The servant problem? I have never had it to cope with, so I cannot enlighten you on that score. I only know that systematic housekeeping and a certain consideration for servants does much to lighten their labors, and to keep them satisfied with their work. Efficiency methods can be applied to housework just as they can to business. For instance, the use of a fireless cooker enables my cook to attend church every Sunday just as I do. When I entertain even in the most informal way, everything is planned in advance, so that there is no hurry or confusion for servants."

"On say you do not see how I find time to teach a Sunday school class and to attend church regularly. Perhaps it is because I put these things first that I find time for all the others. I am a church woman. I believe in church activities for men, women and children."

Representative and Mrs. Garner have one son, a young man eighteen years old, who is a student at George Washington university.

NEW CORN CONTEST TO BE INTERESTING

A. B. WEST DISCUSSES NEW COMMERCIAL CLUB OFFER FOR COMING SEASON.

A CREDIT TO YOUTHS

Boys Must Get Into the Game to Learn Methods of Successful Corn Growing.

By A. B. West.

In a recent number of the Gazette the announcement was made that one hundred and sixty dollars in gold dollars had been offered by the Commercial club of Janesville in prizes for a corn contest for Rock county boys.

Doesn't that sound good to you, boys? And doesn't that sound good to you fathers who want to keep your boys interested in farm work?

Now why should the Commercial Club make this offer?

What are you going to do about it? They make it primarily to promote the farming interests of the county, because the commercial interests of a community depends upon the prosperity of the farmers. Secondly, they make it because they are interested in the boys, and they know a boy can have no healthier interest than in producing something worth while on the farm.

The Commercial Club wishes also to demonstrate the fact that Rock county soil will produce corn that will equal in quality and yield per acre corn of any section of the country.

Now what will the boys who go into this contest get out of it?

First.—Since the best way to learn to do a thing is by doing it, the boys will learn the best methods of corn growing, and how to make the best use of soil and weather conditions.

Second.—They will learn that by proper management an acre of corn may be made to produce many more than the average number of bushels.

Third.—They will have some definite work to do, that while it will be hard, will be well worth while, as it will combine pleasure, profit and education.

Fourth.—They will be stimulated by the corn contest into investigation along other lines of farm work which shall result in advancement of other farm crops.

Who May Enter.

Any Rock county boy over ten years of age whose twentieth birthday comes after January 1st, 1914.

Each boy will select and secure the use of his own acre of land, on which the corn is to be grown. In making this selection the writer suggests that since the prizes offered are for corn on an acre, it will be better if the boy's plot should contain a little more than an acre, so that in working the corn none of the corn on the acre will be lost by horses turning on it.

Of course in measuring the corn only the actual acre will be taken. The plot chosen by the boy may be a separate piece or it may be a part of a larger field.

The contestant is to do the work himself, fertilizing the ground, planting and caring for his corn according to his own plans, and doing all the work on his acre excepting in the case of very young contestants, who may hire heavy work, such as plowing and disking preparatory to planting.

How to Prepare the Seed Bed.

Though the boys have until June 1st to enter for this contest, it is necessary for them to decide at once, as the preparation of the seed bed should be begun as soon as the land can be worked.

If the ground was plowed last fall it should now be disked. If sod (clover sod is good), it should be plowed and then disked. The object of disking is to retain the moisture in the ground by turning a loose earth mulch through which the moisture cannot escape. Disking or harrowing should be done every week until planting time, and especially after each rain. This will keep the moisture in but will dispose of the weeds as they start. If the ground needs manure a few loads should be applied but care should be taken not to use too much coarse material as the seed bed will not be in such good shape after its use.

If not on fall plowing follow the manuring with disking, using a heavy disk for this purpose so as to loosen the soil and mix in the manure.

And when it comes to the plowing, which is the next step in the process, it is well to remember the old adage, "Plow deep, while sluggards sleep, and you shall have corn both to see and to keep."

Every step in the process of corn growing is of importance as it affects the yield, and so plowing must be both deep and thorough. Immediately after plowing the harrow should be used, followed by the disk, and if the disk gets in its work before the plow is dry and hard so much the better.

After this proceed as directed above for work with the disk. Remember the ideal plat that should be attained is a good seed bed with soil fine and firm between three and four inches deep and free from weeds, and a good supply of moisture conserved for use of the crop when the drought of summer comes.

Variety of Seed to Use in Contest.

It is not thought best this year to absolutely limit the contestants as to variety, but it is strongly recommended that they use either Silver King (Wis. No. 7) or Golden Glow (Wis. No. 12).

The reason for the choice of this seed is, first, that these are pure bred varieties and are bred with view to large production.

2nd. That these are varieties which being bred in our state are adapted to conditions here.

3rd. These varieties being grown in Rock county by those who make a specialty of raising pure bred grain, and having been used in the Gazette corn contest last year, this seed should be easy to obtain.

4th. As this seed will be used by most of the contestants on account of its superiority, one using other seed will not stand much chance of securing a place.

Other rules regarding the contest will be given later and directions as to how to do the work will be published in the Gazette from time to time. Watch for them.

"Do It Electrically"

Thos. A. Edison said:--

"In fact, Electricity will vastly cheapen the costs of all the necessities and luxuries of life."

Your home will become immeasurably more pleasant to live in, once it is equipped with Electric Light. Home furnishings and decorations stay bright and clean because there is less cleaning to do, work is lessened. The housewife's time and strength are conserved and yet, with all its superiority, Electric Light is cheap.

Electric Light is Essential to Both Tenant and Landlord

Tenants require Electric Light because they appreciate its help, comfort and convenience. They know, too, that Electricity allows the use of a great number of labor saving electrical appliances. Landlords install Electric Light because they realize that electricity modernizes their property, secures longer leases from a better class of tenants and saves them redecorating cost. No wonder so many up-to-date business men are buying International motor trucks. International motor trucks cost comparatively little to buy and less than horses and wagons to keep.

Their solid tires cut down tire troubles, and the wheels are high enough to insure good traction. The motor is simple and has plenty of power for emergencies. The brakes are safe on any hill. The ignition system is of the best. One lever controls the car. Springs are strong and resilient. The International is built to save you money.

Let us show you all that an International motor truck will do for you. Drop a card today for catalogues and full information to the

Resinol Shaving Stick soothes your face

When you use Resinol Shaving Stick there are no tense, smarting after-effects, no annoying shaving rashes to fear. That is because its creamy lather is full of the same soothing, healing, antiseptic balsams that make Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap so effective in the treatment of skin affections.

25c. at most drug stores, or mailed on receipt of price. For trial size stick-free, write to Dept. K, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

NERVOUS?

All run down? Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a strong nerve tonic. No alcohol. Sold for 60 years.

Ask Your Doctor.

He Believes in Dreams.

Never be vindictive, even in your sleep. Mr. Miggs, a well-known citizen of the North End, was chased by a bull in his dreams the other night. Across the pasture dashed Miggs, the bull galloping at every jump. Breathlessly Miggs reached the fence at last, and, safe astride the top, turned and kicked the bull in the nose, breaking one of his toes on the wall beside the bed. He is out on crutches this week.—Newark News.

AFTER GRIPPE

Made Strong by Vinol.

John C. Furman, of Clarion, Pa., says: "After a very severe attack of the grippe, my system was in a weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I had no appetite at all. I was obliged to continue with my work, and nothing seemed to help me until a friend induced me to take Vinol. I began to note good results from the first bottle. I continued its use and am now sound and well as ever."

In health one cannot realize how depressed a person may become after trying the remedy after another without benefit for such a condition as Mr. Furman was in, or what a relief it is to find help and be restored to health and strength.

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative elements of cods' livers' without the greasy oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so efficient in building up the weakened run-down system.

We guarantee Vinol to give you perfect satisfaction. Smith Drug Co., Drugists, Jansville, Wis.

P. S. For rough, scaly skin, try our Saxe Salve. We guarantee it.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy no good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. All drug-gists.

The Valiants of Virginia

By Hallie Erskine Rives

Illustrated by Lorenz Hart

She read the newspaper article aloud and her mother listened with an expression that puzzled her. When she finished, both were silent for a moment, then she asked, "You must have known his father, dearest; didn't you?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Dandridge after a pause. "I knew his father."

Shirley said no more, and facing each other in the candle-glow, across the spotless damask, they talked, as with common consent, of other things. She thought she had never seen her mother more brilliant. An odd excitement was flooding her cheek with red and she chatted and laughed as she had not done for years.

But after dinner the gaiety and effervescence faded quickly and Mrs. Dandridge went early to her room. She mounted the stairs with her arm thrown about Shirley's pliant waist. At her door she kissed her, looking at her with a strange smile. "How curious," she said, as if to herself, "that it should have happened today!"

The reading-lamp had been lighted on her table. She drew a slim gold chain from the bosom of her dress and held to the light a little locket-brooch it carried. It was of black enamel, with a tiny laurel-wreath of pearls on one side encircling a single diamond. The other side was of crystal, and covered a baby's russet-colored curl. In her fingers it opened and disclosed a miniature at which she looked closely for a moment.

Her eyes turned restlessly about the room. It had been here as a girl, for Rosewood had been the old Garland homestead. It seemed now all at once to be full of calling memories of her youth.

"How strange that it should have been today!" It had been on Shirley's lips to question, but the door had closed, and she went slowly downstairs. She sat at a table, but at length grew restless and began to walk to and fro across the floor, her hands clasped behind her head so that the cool air filled her flowing sleeves. In the hall she could hear the leisurely knock-knock-knock of the tall clock. The evening outside was exquisitely still and the metallic monotone was threaded with the airy sizzle of crickets in the grass and punctuated with the rain-like clasp of a frog.

Shirley stepped lightly down to the wet grass. Looking back, she could see her mother's lighted blind. All around the ground was spotted with rose-petals, looking in the squares of light like bloody rain. She skimmed the lawn and ran a little way down the lane. A shuffling sound presently fell on her ear.

"Is that you, Uncle Jefferson?" she called softly.

"Yes!" The footsteps came nearer. "Sit me, Miss Shirley." He tilted noiselessly, and she could see his bent form vibrating in the gloom.

"Yo' reckon Ah done fergit?"

"No, indeed. I knew you wouldn't do that. How is he?"

"He right much better," he replied in the same guarded tone. "Doctah be say he be all right in er few days, on'y he gatter lay up er while. Dat was er ugly nip he got fom dat 'spicable reptyle."

"Do you think there can be any others about the grounds?"

"No'm. Dey mos'ly keeps ter de ma'shan' en on'y runs whah de undah-breath ez thick. I gwine fix dat ter-morrow. Mars Valiant he tell me ter grub et all out en make er bon-fah ob it."

"That's right, Uncle Jefferson. Good night, and thank you for coming."

She started back to the house, when his voice stopped her.

"Miss Shirley, yo' don' keef er de ole man geddahs two er three ob dem roses? Seems lik' young Mars moughty fon' ob dem. He got one in er glass but et's mos' daid now."

"Wait a minute," she said, and disappeared in the darkness, returning quickly with a handful which she put in his grasp.

"I'm Tempted to Stay Sick and Do Nothing but Eat."

"There!" she whispered, and slipped back through the perfumed dark.

An hour later she stood in the cozy stillness of her bedroom. She threw off her gown, slipped into a soft loose robe of maline-colored silk and stood before the small glass. She pulled out the amber pins and drew her wonderful hair on either side of her face, looking out at her reflection like a mermaid from between the rippling waves of a moon-golden sea.

At last she turned, and seating herself at the desk, took from it a diary. She scanned the pages at random, her eyes catching lines here and there. "A good run today. Betty and Judge Chalmers and the Pendleton boys. My fourth brush this season." A frown drew itself across her brows, and she turned the page. "One of the hounds broke his leg, and I gave him to Rickey."

"Chilly Lusk to dinner today, after swimming the Long Rapid."

She bit her lip, turned abruptly to the new page and took up her pen. "This morning a twelve-mile run to Damory Court," she wrote. "This afternoon went for cape jessamines."

There she paused. The happenings and sensations of that day would not be recorded. They were unwelcome. She laid down her pen and put her forehead on her clasped hands. How empty and lone these entries seemed beside this rich and eventful twenty-four hours just passed! What had she been doing a year ago today? she wondered. The lower drawer of the desk held a number of slim diaries like the one before her. She pulled it out, took up the last year's volume and opened it.

"Why," she said in surprise, "I got jessamine for mother this very same day last year!" she pondered frowning, then reached for a third and a fourth. From these she looked up startled. "That date in her mother's calendar called for cape jessamines. What was the fourteenth of May to her?"

She bent a slow troubled gaze about her. The room had been hers as a child. She seemed suddenly back in that childhood, with her mother bending over her pillow and fondling her rebellious hair. When the wind cried for loneliness out in the dark she had sung old songs to her. Sad songs! Even in those pinafore years Shirley had vaguely realized that pain lay behind the brave gay mask. Was there something—some event—that had caused that dull-colored life and unfulfillment? And was today, perhaps, its anniversary?

John Valiant sat propped up on the library couch, an open magazine unheeded on his knee. The reading stand beside him was a litter of letters and papers. The bow-window was open and the honeysuckle breeze blew about him, lifting his hair and ruffling the leaves of the papers. In the garden three darkies were laboring, under the supervision of Uncle Jefferson. The unsightly weeds and ditches were gone from the graveled paths, and from the fountain pool, whose shaft now spouted a slender spray shivered by the breeze into a million diamonds, which fell back into the pool with a tinkling trickle and drip.

The master of Damory Court closed the magazine with a sigh. "If I could only do it all at once!" he muttered. "It takes such a confounded time. Four days they've been working now, and they haven't done much more than clean up." He laughed, and threw the magazine at the dog who dodged it with injured slowness. "After all, Chum," he remarked, "it's been thirty years getting in this condition. I guess we're doing pretty well."

He stretched luxuriously. "I'll take a hand at it myself tomorrow. I'm as right as rain again now, thanks to Aunt Daph and the doctor. Some thing of a crusty citizen, the doctor, but he's all to the good."

A heavy step came along the porch and Uncle Jefferson appeared with a tray holding a carved dish with a plate of bluet and a round jam-pot.

"Look here," said John Valiant, "I had my luncheon three hours ago. I'm being stuffed like a milk-fed turkey." The old man smiled widely. "It's de' er 't snack er broth," he said. "Reck'n still kinder goat eroun' de yuddah things. Dis' year pot's dat apple-buttah whut Miss Mattie Sue sen' yo' by Rickey Snyder."

Valiant sniffed with satisfaction. "I'm getting so confoundedly spoiled," he said, "that I'm tempted to stay sick and do nothing but eat. By the way, Uncle Jefferson, where did Rickey come from? Does he belong here?"

"No, sah. She come fom Hell's-Half-Acre."

"What's that?"

"Dat's dat ornery passle o' folks yondah on de Dome," explained Uncle Jefferson. "Dey's been dah long's Ah kin' recommehd-jes er ram-shackle lot o' shiffles po' white trash whut git erlong anyways 't all."

"That's interesting," said Valiant. "So Rickey belonged there?"

"Yes, sah, nebhan a come down hah' cep'in' to Miss Shirley. She de one whut foteh de 't gal outen dat place, en put hah' wid Miss Mattie Sue, three yesh erge."

A sudden color came into John Valiant's cheeks. "Tell me about it," his voice vibrated eagerly.

"Well, sah," continued Uncle Jefferson, "dew was one o' dem low-down Hell's-Half-Acre's, name Greef King, whut call hah'f de mayah, ob de Dome, en he went on de rampage one day, en took at hah' his wife. She was er po' sickly 'oman, wid er 't gal five yesh o' by er fast-husband. He done beat hah' heap o' times befo', but dis time he boun' ter finish hah'. Ah reckon he was too drunk fo' dat, en she got erway en run down beach. Et was wintah time en dah's snow on de groun'. Dah's er road fom de Dome dat hits de Red Road clost ter Rosewood—dat a's de Dandridge place—en she come dah. Reck'n she wuz er pitiful-lookin' ob'acle. Peahs lak she done put de 't gal up in de cabin lof' en bid de laddah, en she mos' crazy fo' fash-Greef King hah. She let he buffin' de young 'n when she run erway. Dey was on'y Miss Judith en Miss Shirley en de gal Em'line at Rosewood. Well, sah, dey want no time ter sen' to men. Whut yo' reckon Miss Shirley do? She ah' ahead o' nuffin on dis vert, en she on'y sechenteen yesh o' den, too. She run out ter de stable en saddle hah' hoes, en she gallop up dat road ter Hell's-Half-Acre lak er shot outen er shovell."

Valiant brought his hands together sharply. "Yes, yes," he said. "And then?"

"When she come ter Greef King's cabin, he done foun' de laddah, en one er he fotehs was on de run. He had er ax in he han'. De po' 't gal was peepin' down thoo de cracks o' de flo', en prayin' de beastes she know how. She say arterwards dat she reckon de Good Lawd sen' er angel, fo' Miss Shirley wuz all in white—she dida stop ter change hah' close. She didn' say nuffin, Miss Shirley didn'. She on'y lay hah' han' on Greef King's arm, en he look at hah' face, en he drop de ax en go. Den she clumb de laddah en foteh de chille down in hah' arms en take hah' en de boss en come back. Dat de way et happen, sah."

"And Rickey was that little child?"

"Yes, sah, she sho' was. In de mawnin' er posse done ride up ter Hell's-Half-Acre en take Greef King in. De majah he arggy de case fo' de State, en when he done git thoo, dey mos' put de tow' eroun' King's nek in de coot' room. He done got six yesh, en et mos' broke de majah's hah at dat dey couldn' give him no mo'. He wuz cert'n er had aig, dat mo'. He wuz cert'n er had aig, dat mo'. He wuz cert'n er had aig, dat mo'."

Such was the story which Uncle Jefferson told, standing in the doorway. When his shuffling step had retreated, Valiant went to the table and picked up a slim toiled volume that lay there. It was "Lucille," which he had found in the hall the night of his arrival. He opened it to a page where, pressed and wrinkled but still retaining its bright red pigment, lay what had been a rose.

He stood looking at it abstractedly, his nostrils widening to its crushed spley scent, then closed it and slipped it into his pocket.

CHAPTER XVI

In Devil-John's Day.

He was still sitting motionless when there came a knock at the door and it opened to admit the gruff voice of Doctor Southall. A big form was close behind him.

"Hell, Up, I see. I took the liberty of bringing Major Bristow."

The master of Damory Court came forward—limping the least trifle—and shook hands.

"Glad to know you, sah," said the major. "Allow me to congratulate you. It's not every one who gets bitten by one of those infernal moccasins that lives to talk about it. You must be a pet of Providence, or else you have a cast-iron constitution, sah."

Valiant waved his hand toward the man of medicine, who said, "I reckon Miss Shirley was the Providence in the case. She had sense enough to send for me quick and speeded it." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

They were discussing the relative position of various countries as musical centers. Germany seemed to have the most votaries, much to the evident displeasure of one excitable

Italian, who wished his own country to carry off the palm.

"Italy is turning out the most musicians, and has always turned out the most," he cried.

"Ach," exclaimed a German present, "can you blame them?"

"The call the Mexican Indians lazy," said the traveler, "but the Mexican Indian is the only man I've ever seen who works while he sleeps."

"In the interior of Mexico one balmy January afternoon, I came upon an Indian but romantically situated beside a stream. A hammock of native grass was swung across a narrow branch of the stream, an Indian slept in the hammock, and a string, tied to his foot, dangled in the water. As I approached the string tightened with a jerk. The Indian awoke. He seized the string and hauled it in. There was a fish of three pounds' weight at the end of it."

"Here you are, Mercedes," shouted the Indian.

"His brown wife came and removed the fish. She rebaited the hook. Then the Indian, lying back in the hammock again, resumed his sleep-angling act."

Useless.

"After a man has invested in one of your get-rich-quick schemes, do you keep on sending him literature for your new enterprise?" "Certainly not," answered the promoter. "What's the use of wasting postage stamps on a man who is broke?"

Right.

A good many people sympathize with the under dog, but they don't want the upper dog to know it.
